- RCONA report: Jim Kidd reported the following:
- No Santa event is planned this year at the Riley Library. This creates an RCONA savings of $1,700 which is planned to be distributed to individual neighborhood associations in support their specific seasonal activities ($100 per association).
- A date for the city’s annual Santa Parade was planned to be announced November 1st.

Nominations are being accepted for the RCONA Executive Board.

The city announced $6 bus tickets for round trip transportation to Sacramento Kings basketball games.

On October 29th, a medicine disposal day is planned at Maidu Park.

The city announced plans for maintenance projects on 16 bridges within the city limits.

Old Business:

The annual Maidu Park clean-up day had a lower number of residents participating this year (15-20). The lower participation may have been partly due to a large unpermitted fund raising event that was held at the same time and location making it harder for residents to find the MNA staging area. The consensus was less trash in the park this year, possibly due to the deployment of (fire mitigation) goats in the park a few weeks before our event. The following ideas were discussed how to improve the event in the future years:

Weigh the total amount of trash collected each year for better comparisons year to year.

Create a free standing PVC frame in which to hang MNA event banners on the day and at the location of staging areas to make it easier for residents to find us.

Jim volunteered to talk with city representatives regarding RCONA functions planned at city facilities and to waive related use fees.

New Business:

Next monthly meeting is planned earlier than normal (November 15) to avoid scheduling conflicts with the Thanksgiving holiday.

There is no guest speaker planned for the November meeting.

Upcoming Christmas activities including the Santa Parade and home decorating contest offering three categories.

Meeting Adjourned: Unknown time (sorry)
